

Financial Policy

In today's world, insurance is an important aspect of payment for medical and dental treatment. Insurance companies have an obligation to make profits for their shareholders. They provide for minimally acceptable care; it is not their objective to provide for the best possible care. Our patients understand the difference between what insurance companies pay and what our office charges. Our patients appreciate the high level of quality care provided at our office and the personal attention given reflected by our fees.

While our office does not accept insurance as payment we will do all that we can to make sure you get the maximum reimbursement from your insurance company.
